Forces Germany-Bound

Army, Air Force Join Hands For Historic Airlift

BERGSTROM AFB, Tex. (AP)—The Army and Air Force joined hands today in a historic demonstration of the United States' power to throw a quick fighting punch overseas.

The first of more than 200 air transports carrying the 2nd Armored Division to Germany in Exercise Big Lift left the runway at Bergstrom AFB near Austin Monday at 11:57 p. m.

Minutes later other Military Air Transport Service planes took off from Gray AFB at Killeen, Connally AFB at Waco and Sheppard AFB at Wichita Falls with other troops of the Ft. Hood-based 2nd Armored and supporting units.

The airlift, largest in U.S. military history, continues until Thursday afternoon. Then the 2nd Armored will tangle with the 3rd Armored Division in mock nuclear war. The 3rd Armored, which plays the role of invader, is already in Europe.

As five troop-laden transports filled the air every hour from Texas bases, about 160 tactical planes were leaving from two bases in Maine—Loring AFB and Dow AFB.

The first to take off from Loring was a huge KC135 jet tanker of the Strategic Air Command. The tanker planes headed out to make refueling contact with supersonic F100s and F105s.

"The eyes of the world are on you," Gen. Paul S. Adams, chief of the strike command running the airlift of 16,000 soldiers and airmen, told the troops at Ft. Hood shortly before they boarded buses en route to the air bases.

U.S. officials have said the major aim of Big Lift is to demonstrate to this country's allies and to the Soviets an ability to reinforce swiftly the forces facing the Communists along the Iron Curtain in West Europe.

"We're ready to go," said Maj. Gen. Edwin H. Burba, commander of the 2nd Armored.

Hurricane Ginny, cavorting off the Atlantic Coast, changed part of the flight plans. Some flights originally scheduled to fly to Germany by way of Bermuda and Azores turned to the northern route over Greenland and Scotland.

Once the operation had started, planes departed with clockwork regularity and precisely on schedule until one got away from Bergstrom at 3:32 a.m. (CST)—28 minutes earlier than it was due to leave. Among those aboard was Edward Trappnell, a special assistant to the secretary of the Air Force.

Waiting soldiers napped quietly until time to board their transports. Snack bars provided coffee and cookies.

Contract Let On Oak Glen Road Project

Board In Hancock Accepts $13,490 Brooke Firm Bid

The bid of a Brooke County firm for constructing an access road to the new Oak Glen High School in Pughtown was accepted by the Hancock County Board of Education Monday night.

Receiving only three bids for the project, the board accepted the low bid of the A. Murphy Construction Co. of Wellsville for $13,490.

The James White Construction Co. of Weirton asked $19,915.30, and $22,270.

Plans call for construction of a new access road from near a refreshment sales stand on State Route 2 to the Oak Glen school on Gas Valley Rd. nearby.

The board had advertised for bids for the access road previously, and had received only one offer. It decided to re-advertise and last night's action followed.

Kellam & Foley, architects for the $5 million school expansion program in the county, presented new completion dates for the plants.

Construction will be completed Monday on the Chester ele. (Turn to CONTRACT, Page 10)

Judge Drops Tax Charges As 5 Men Pay

Advised that settlements had been made by the defendants in each case, Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff today dismissed affidavits in which five men were accused of violation of the city income tax ordinance.

The judge dismissed charges against:

James Adkins Jr., 1022 Ambrose Ave., Caesar Peters, 1172 Harker Ave., David McCoy, 746 Minerva St., Samuel Everhart, 800 Dresden Ave., and John Fitch, 518 Mulberry St.

Judge Chertoff ordered each of the defendants to pay the costs. McCoy was the only one of the five defendants who appeared.

Red China Again Loses In U.N. Bid

U.S. Hails Vote, Another Victory In Rejecting Peking

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The United Nations has again rejected membership for Communist China in a vote hailed by the United States as a clear indication of opposition to the Peking regime.

The vote Monday constituted another victory for the United States in its battle to keep Red China out of the world organization. It was the 14th time the General Assembly has either rejected or sidetracked Peking's admission.

The 111-member General Assembly defeated an Albanian-Cambodian resolution to seat Peking and oust Nationalist China, 57-41 with 12 abstentions. Ethiopia, which voted for admission last year, was absent. Passage of the resolution would have required 74 votes, a two-thirds majority.

Last year the vote was 56 against and 42 in favor, with 12 abstentions.

Diplomats doubted the changes in votes indicated any trend.

Cyprus, Malaysia and Togo switched from abstentions to opposition this year. Mauritania switched from rejection to abstention, while Yemen changed from acceptance to abstention. Kuwait, the United Nations' newest member, abstained.

This was the first year the resolution for Peking's admission was not sponsored by the Soviet Union, currently embroiled in an ideological dispute with Red China. The Soviet block voted for the resolution, but the Russians made only a token speech urging its adoption.

Adlai E. Stevenson, chief U.S. delegate, said the negative vote "indicates that it is the strong view of the General Assembly that the Nationalist Chinese should not be expelled and the Communist Chinese seated."

Strike Parleys Halt

The Mackintosh - Hemphill Co. and Steelworkers Union remained deadlocked after negotiations Monday at Beaver over a strike that has idled 550 at Midland and Pittsburgh and no further talks are slated, according to Ronald Bolton, president of Local 1269. Some 300 have been idle at Midland and 250 at Pittsburgh since Oct. 11 in the dispute over fringe benefits.

Council Clears Request Bill Due Study To Create 'Human Relations' Group

Council voted Monday night to consider legislation at its meeting Nov. 18 establishing a Human Relations Committee in East Liverpool to study complaints of alleged discrimination because of race, religion, or national origin.

Council acted after Alonzo Spencer, of Pennsylvania Ave., president of the local branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, declared the request for the legislation has been hanging fire since the summer of 1962.

The planning committee headed by Councilman Floyd Murray submitted a recommendation for presentation of the legislation over a year ago and the report was accepted by Council, but no further action has been taken, Spencer said.

Spencer said the NAACP conferred with Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper on the status of the legislation and was told Council had not advised the exact language it wished in the measure. Spencer said the NAACP has copies of similar pieces of legislation enacted in Warren and at Midland.

The group prefers the Warren ordinance because it contains "some teeth" while the Midland legislation makes the commission's position purely advisory, he said.

After some discussion between Murray and Councilman Robert W. Sample Jr., ordinance committee chairman, on the history of the legislation, Council approved a motion from Sample for presentation of the measure at the next meeting.

In its original proposal, the NAACP proposed establishment of a committee to act on complaints of discrimination in hiring, use of public accommodations and other facets of community life.

It proposed that the ordinance empower the mayor to name the commission to hear complaints.

'IS THAT THUNDER?' 9-year-old George Johnson asks, eyes skyward, as members of Wellsville Boy Scout Troop 19 attempt a little rain dancing to bring needed showers to the drought-stricken area. George, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson, 804 Lisbon St., was wrong, and the Indian dance team—consisting of, left to right, Tom Hanselman and Harold Neville of East Liverpool and Bruce Glover, Jack Glover, Robert Bratt and David Tarnovich of Wellsville—apparently didn't hop hard enough, because today's forecast is, "unseasonably warm, no showers."

Jury Awards Chester $248 In City Trial

Suit Results From Hydrant Damage By Resident's Car

After deliberating for 75 minutes Monday afternoon, a Municipal Court jury of six men and six women returned a verdict for the city of Chester in its civil action against an East Liverpool man for $248 for damages to a fire hydrant stemming from a 1961 traffic accident.

Five members of the panel signed the verdict granting Chester a judgment against Ronald W. Orr, 644 Minerva St., for $228 for damages to the hydrant and $20.93 in interest on a note which Orr had signed.

Joseph E. Wetzel, 923 May St., selected as foreman, announced the verdict when the jury returned to the courtroom at 4 p. m.

It had received the case at 2:45 p. m. after hearing closing arguments from Atty. William Ingram, Chester solicitor, and Atty. William E. Conklin of Chester, counsel for Orr, and instructions from Judge Samuel W. Chertoff.

In his closing argument, Atty. Ingram pointed out Orr had been fined $10 and costs after being found guilty of hazardous driving and the note was entered into the same night. He explained the city agreed not to charge any interest if payments were made promptly.

It marked the first time the city has had to bring a court action to collect damages.

The solicitor termed Orr's defense that he signed the note under duress, coercion and intimidation as "very odd." "The fear he felt was the fear of paying. You can find that in any man," Ingram declared.

Atty. Conklin stressed two points in his summation. He argued that no consideration was given Orr for signing the note, explaining that the defendant received nothing of value for his signature since he was not responsible for the accident.

The defense counsel asserted the evidence showed conclusively that Orr was not at fault and when the verdict was appealed.

Cold War Truce Over? U.S. Expects Diplomatic Fronts To Warm Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials expect the diplomatic fronts—both in the East and the West—to begin warming up again.

They feel that the relatively long period of calm during the limited nuclear test ban talks with the Soviet Union and during the changes of government in Britain and West Germany is over.

But no real drama is expected, nothing like the U.S.-Soviet crisis over Cuba a year ago.

The truce on the cold war is believed here to have ended with this recent series of happenings:

Soviet troops blocking American and British convoys on the Berlin autobahn; the Soviet attack on the planned NATO multilateral force; and Izvestia's bitter comment on Exercise Big Lift, the U.S. experiment in transporting a whole division across the Atlantic by planes.

With the seeming end of the thaw, U.S. foreign policy experts figure the Kremlin will:

—Prod the West with tangible reminders that the Berlin issue is still alive.

—Seek opportunities to split the Western allies.

—Continue to seek understanding with the United States on pending issues, especially on minor ones.

The more peaceful activities will consist of talks on a variety of topics, ranging from negotiation on purchases of wheat to disarmament.

The situation with the allies appears to be a more complicated one. It will be Secretary of State Dean Rusk's task to find out, and soon, what if any changes in foreign policy the new governments in Britain and Germany represent.

No dramatic changes are expected, officials here said, but there may be skirmishes between the allies on a number of issues. Officials pointed out that differences between the four major Western capitals are always more accentuated before NATO's ministers convene—the council is due to meet in Paris in December—and the Big Lift appears to contribute to existing misunderstandings.

The Kennedy administration is still hoping that by early 1964 it will have a decisive answer from its allies on whether they want to go ahead with the multination nuclear fleet, whether they have some other ideas or whether they want to scrap the plan.

Another problem is West Germany's concern that if Big Lift is successful—thereby proving the United States can swiftly reinforce Europe from bases in the United States—the U.S. force in Germany will be reduced.

State Department officials privately concede it will not be easy to convince Bonn that this is not the case. They blame remarks by Deputy Secretary of Defense Roswell L. Gilpatric for stirring up the suspicion.

Boards To Air County Delay On Tax Funds

A joint meeting of the East Liverpool, Beaver Local and Wellsville school boards with County Auditor Kenneth Bell and County Treasurer Vincent C. Judge to learn the reasons for delays in allotting tax funds to school districts, has been scheduled for Oct. 29 at 7:30 p. m. Supt. Paul H. Blair advised the Board of Education Monday night.

Blair said representatives from other school districts also have expressed interest in attending the meeting.

Plans for the meeting were set in motion at the session Oct. 7 when the board unanimously approved a motion by Harry D.

'No Excitement' Here Boy, 15, Blames Boredom In Setting Downtown Fire

Because there's no "excitement" in East Liverpool, a 15-year-old city youth admitted to fire officials Monday afternoon that he set a blaze which damaged two stores and apartments on St. Clair Ave. on Oct. 14.

During questioning yesterday by Asst. Fire Chief James Pelley and Deputy State Fire Marshal Mike Melillo of Youngstown, the youth admitted touching off the fire at the Trainer buildings at St. Clair Ave. and Welch Alley where two elderly women, one invalided with a broken hip and the other nearly blind, had to be rescued from their apartments.

The officials quoted the Westgate Junior High eighth-grader as declaring, "There's no excitement since the skating rink was closed."

The boy expressed remorse because he was unaware that the elderly women could have been trapped, Pelley said.

He is scheduled tentatively to be arraigned Thursday in Juvenile Court at Lisbon on an arson charge, the officials said.

The youth told the two investigators he used a match to ignite rubbish and cartons beneath an open stairway in the alley between the buildings and then went into Gallagher's Market at the front where he remained until the fire was discovered.

It was the second time the boy attempted to start a fire at the same building, Pelley said. Firemen were not aware of the first attempt, about two weeks ago, until they began investigating last week's fire.

Pelley said the youth set the first fire and then reported it.

Price Probe Held Reason For Action

None Of Concerns Say So; Capital Declines Comment

NEW YORK (AP)—At least seven big steel companies have been subpoenaed by a federal grand jury in New York under mysterious circumstances. It was reported that the inquiry concerned steel prices.

However, none of the steel firms openly said so, and the Justice Department in Washington declined comment.

A spokesman for one company, Republic Steel Corp., said the subpoenas "took the industry by surprise."

An across-the-board increase in prices by most major steel producers within 48 hours in April 1962 erupted into an epic business-government clash. The $6 a ton hike was rescinded under White House pressure.

Among other things, a grand jury investigation was launched but nothing came of it.

Another round of increases started in September applied to oil field pipe, bars, plate, structural shapes and semi-finished steel sold by primary producers to processors, plus a few other products.

Some of these increases fluctuated from company to company before settling into a well-defined pattern.

Besides Republic, the third-ranking producer, companies confirming receipt of subpoenas Monday included U.S. Steel Corp., Bethlehem Steel Corp., National Steel Corp., Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co., and Wheeling. All except Wheeling are among the big eight producers.

Detour Slated In Bridge Job

Surfacing Will Shut Link With Chester

Police Chief Americo J. Radeschi today worked out a tentative detour for Route 30 traffic to follow through East Liverpool Wednesday while the Chester Bridge is closed for blacktop surfacing.

Since Route 30 traffic between Ohio and West Virginia will be forced to use the Newell Bridge as an alternate, autos will be detoured via Jefferson St. and W. 5th St. off the E. 3rd St. section of the Freeway, the chief said.

The Chester Bridge will be closed from 7 a. m. to 5 p. m. tomorrow, the chief was advised today by representatives of the contractor, the Tri-State Asphalt Corp. of East Liverpool and Martins Ferry.

But trucks over 10 tons gross will not be permitted to use the Newell Bridge because of a load limit, according to the Newell Bridge & Railway Co., operator of the toll span.

Heavy trucks will be required to go to the next nearest spans at Steubenville or Rochester to get across the Ohio River. A similar situation arose a few years ago, resulting in the long detour for trucks.

The Newell management said it already has notified a number of large area trucking concerns which operate through here regularly, including companies in Wheeling, Pittsburgh and Youngstown.

Chief Radeschi emphasized the Jefferson-W. 5th St. detour path was set by him tentatively pending arrival of a State Highway Department official who was to confer with him on the arrangements.

The course was to train those who in turn will instruct boys of their scout troops.

Palestine Board Given Estimate

EAST PALESTINE — The Board of Education Monday night accepted the certificate from the Columbiana County Budget Commission, estimating the 1964 tax revenue.

It shows $256,440 for the general fund and $83,809 for the bond retirement fund from levies outside the 10-mill limitation and $85,483 from levies inside the 10-mill limitation. The latter is split equally for bond retirement and general fund.

The total estimated revenue is $425,740. The current rate is 15.3 mills outside with 2.6-mills up for renewal at the Nov. 5 general election.

The board voted to close school at 1 p. m. Nov. 15 to allow the teachers to attend a Columbiana County mental health clinic at Westgate School at East Liverpool.

The Kiwanis Club was granted permission to use the high school auditorium for a Community Chorus concert April 21.

Councilmen Will Skip Election Eve Session

For the first time in many years, there will be no session of City Council on the eve of the Nov. 5 general election.

Councilmen approved a motion made Monday night by Councilman S. James Welch, rules committee chairman, to skip the session Nov. 4 and hold the next regular meeting on Nov. 18.

A Council session always has preceded general elections. That's because Council's meetings are on the first and third Mondays of each month and the general election falls on the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November.

at the market and it was extinguished quickly. The department was not called, he added.

Pelley and Melillo said they were unaware the boy had been in the store at the time of the second fire until he volunteered the information during yesterday's interrogation.

Pelley said they received a report that three juveniles were seen in the alley about the time of the fire, but were unable to secure any trace of them.

Stymied, the two officials began investigating the first fire in an attempt to get a lead on the second, Pelley explained.

Learning the youth had been at the market for the first fire, the two officials went to Westgate to quiz him.

When he volunteered that he also was in the store when the second blaze was discovered, questioning continued and discrepancies were found in the story, he related, Pelley said.

He volunteered to take a lie detector test but later admitted setting both fires. He also admitted starting a brush fire in Lawrenceville sometime ago, the assistant chief said.

The youth probably will be questioned further as officials continue to track down leads into a fire at Riverview Orchids, which also was started by a "firebug."

A 23-year-old city man was picked up on suspicion after the second Trainer fire when Lt. Clyde W. Boso saw the man leaving in his car and then returning later to the fire. However, he was released the following day.

It marked the second time within three days fire officials have found juveniles responsible for blazes.

A pre-school age youngster admitted to Pelley, Melillo and Chief Charles Bryan last Friday that he was playing with matches beneath the porch of a vacant Hazel St. home on Wednesday when a fire started.

Officials said they doubted if the blaze was set deliberately, but believe it started when the neighborhood youngster dropped a blazing match.

to Hancock County Circuit Court it was thrown out.

Conklin pointed out the other driver was not called to testify nor did Mrs. Ruth Cox Turner, Chester solicitor at the time of the accident.

He stressed there was no physical violence but said duress, coercion and intimidation can take many forms, including psychological pressure.

"Here we have a part-time mayor and the other driver, both employed at Crucible Steel in Midland while Orr depends for his livelihood on Chester employment (a driver for Goddard Bakers). They know if he wants to keep his job, they've got him."

Ex-Mayor Collins had a "surprisingly faulty" memory of everything except that the defendant signed the note after he was fined. "Everything else was conjecture and surmise."

The jury was instructed by Judge Chertoff that it had to apply the law as stated by the court but it would be the sole judge on matters of fact and the credibility of witnesses.

The jurors were told that nine must concur before a verdict could be reached.

The jury returned once to ask why the original conviction had been reversed when appealed to Circuit Court but Judge Chertoff instructed it the matter was not to be inquired into since it was presumed to be legal and lawful and was not a matter at issue.

Harold Davis, former patrolman, also testified briefly, primarily on the accident report he had filed and some of the circumstances at the hearing.

Besides Wetzel, the jury included Millie Faye McElhanev, 2111 Crawford Ave.; Beverly J. Desher of Radio Heights; George L. Simms, 2026 Ohio Ave.; Grace Ella Manning, 603 Grove Alley; Thelma Louise Stutler, 854 State St.; Sanders Firestone, 6 Manor Ln.; Luther Vick, 2221 Harvey Ave.; James L. Massey, 696 Springgrove Ave.; Edith V. Price, 456 Sunset Dr.; William A. Merchant, 255 Moore St., and Ruth Beaver of Bluff St.

Health Board Names Head Of TB Control

LISBON — The Columbiana County Board of Health Monday night approved Dr. F. G. Kravec of Youngstown as county deputy tuberculosis director for the county.

County commissioners had requested the setup after the four city health districts, East Liverpool, Wellsville, Salem and East Palestine, advised they approved.

Dr. Kravec said this will permit a uniform program of TB control. Previously each district set up its own controls and none seem to be uniform. The four-tenths-mill levy is coming up for renewal in November for operation of the TB Clinic.

The new plan will not be too drastic as the County Clinic already has a central register on all TB cases in the county, Dr. Kravec remarked. He is director of the clinic.

Harry Stockdale of East Liverpool, county sanitarian, reported on his two recent visits to the Nease Chemical Co. plant, north of Salem, which was ordered to abate a fumes nuisance at the meeting last month. He advised the board he found a vast improvement by the company.

He also discussed a complaint on a dog kennel just outside of Leetonia, which was being operated in a very unsanitary condition. Three dogs got into a fight and one had died. The head was sent to the state laboratory at Cuyahoga Falls but was found not to be rabid.

The board also discussed areas which need central sewage and water systems in the county, including Homeworth, Westville Lake area, Salineville, Hanoverton, Summitville and Guilford Lake.

Mrs. Violet Peterson, county health nurse, was given a leave of absence from Feb. 1, 1964, to Jan. 1, 1965, and Mrs. Thirza Bailey, county registrar, was allowed expenses to attend the Ohio registrars and clerks meeting in Mansfield Monday through Wednesday.

Dr. C. S. Palmer, county health commissioner, presented monthly reports.

The health department issued 52 plumbing and 57 sewage permits during the month and Stockdale made 27 food service inspections, 19 sewage, 12 water samples, nine refuse, 11 nuisances, two schools and one rabies and attended four conferences.

E. E. (Gene) Cover, plumbing inspector, made 65 plumbing, 47 sewage, 13 water samples, three nuisances and one refuse.

Mrs. Peterson made 14 school visits, gave 103 physical examinations, 582 immunizations, 516 vaccinations and 24 polio shots. She made eight jail visits, six home visits and the county reported one typhoid case, two of infectious hepatitis and two latent venereal diseases. She also attended one educational meeting.

Albert Hanna of Salem, Floyd Lower of Lisbon and Steve Barborak of West Point were visitors at the meeting.

Bills of $3,435.67 were ordered paid.

Next meeting is Nov. 18 at 8 p. m.

Dust Complaints Aired By Council

At a time of the year when it's normally concerned with cold temperatures and snow removal, City Council was occupied Monday night by complaints of severe dust conditions on unimproved streets caused by the hot, dry weather.

As an upshot of the discussion, Councilman George E. Willshaw, chairman of the finance committee, promised to confer today with Safety-Service Director Robert Owen on purchase of several truckloads of oil to help alleviate the condition.

THE QUESTION was raised first by Councilman Floyd Murray, who said he has received 15 complaints on dusty streets in the last week. He asked Willshaw if funds could be transferred from some source to purchase a new supply of oil.

Willshaw replied he will confer with the director today. If oil is available, funds can be transferred to cover the purchase, he said. Willshaw then polled members of Council, who agreed informally to the transfer of money if an oil supply can be located.

During the exchange between Willshaw and Murray, Councilman Robert Sample Jr. said facetiously: "But it's going to snow soon!"

Councilman S. James Welch remarked that many streets in the Third Ward need oiling, including the top of Lincoln Ave., Gardendale Ave. and other Gardendale streets, Norton St., Peake St., Henry Ave. and McKee St. He said he would agree to special session, if necessary, to appropriate funds to buy oil.

"If oil is available, Council already is on record to provide the money," Willshaw replied.

Welch said most Gardendale streets were not included in the low-cost surfacing program during the summer because of an impending sanitary sewer project in which the surfaces of most will be torn up. As a result, the dust problem there is particularly bad, he said.

Sample asked to add Riley Ave. to the list of streets needing oil.

Councilman Frank Duffy said he also has received many complaints on dust.

Willshaw said he will confer with Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper on whether money should be appropriated formally before oil is ordered. If the solicitor advises enactment of legislation, a special session will be called, he said.

TWO REQUESTS on traffic and street problems were referred to the street committee for investigation.

Welch read a petition and letter with five signatures asking that the city open the alley between Center and Haywood Sts. in Beechwood. The petition said householders need access to the rear of their properties for coal deliveries and for erection of garages.

Another letter requested establishment of one-way traffic on Laura Ave. between Ambrose and Bradshaw Aves. It also was signed by five persons.

Murray, reporting for the planning committee, said it still is studying a request from the East Liverpool Merchants Association for establishment of a "token" plan for parking meters.

Under the proposal, made in September by ELMA, merchants would give shoppers tokens to insert in meters. The businessmen then would reimburse the city for each token used.

MURRAY SAID a meeting will be held by his committee with the ELMA and the banks which handle meter receipts to discuss establishment of the system.

Welch reported a plan for construction of a pedestrian safety island at E. 4th St. and Broadway has been referred to the solicitor. The plan was given Council at its meeting Oct. 7 by the Lions Club, which said it will finance the project.

Murray renewed complaints against heavy truck traffic on Michigan Ave. between Harvey Ave. and Putnam St. and reiterated that he feels a load limit is needed to keep heavy vehicles off residential streets. He asked a street committee investigation.

Council approved Murray's motion to extend a vote of thanks to Boy Scout Troop 12 of the Trinity United Presbyterian Church for cutting brush along the Pennsylvania Ave. "Hill Road" about a week ago to allow motorists a better view of the Ohio River valley.

"It was a wonderful project,"

Murray said. "Maybe another troop will take up where the first group left off."

REMARKING that Owen was absent, Sample said he went to Columbus yesterday to obtain information on preparation of a "master plan" for the city.

Council filed a letter from IBOP Local 124 thanking it for enactment of the so-called "anti-strikebreaker" ordinance Oct. 7. The letter was signed by Lettice Lee, recording secretary.

Council received for study a copy of a resolution enacted by the Delphos Council in opposition to a reported move by the State Legislature to consider a bill that would consolidate city relief departments with county systems.

Council excused Councilmen Kenneth C. Berg, who is hospitalized in Pittsburgh; Councilman Edward Massey, who was working, and President Charles N. Edwards, who is in California after submitting his resignation, effective Oct. 31.

Willshaw, president pro tem, presided. The meeting opened with invocation by Sample.

Elks Lodge Gets Award At District Activity Session

The East Liverpool Lodge won the attendance trophy for the second consecutive time at the fall meeting of the Southeast District activities committee of the Ohio Elks Association Saturday and Sunday at Martins Ferry.

Twenty-seven local Elks were present, along with six members of the Wellsville lodge.

Seven candidates from six lodges were initiated by a team including Richard L. Scott, exalted ruler, and James Ferguson, esquire, of the East Liverpool lodge and William Rager, inner guard of the Wellsville lodge.

District committeemen who gave reports included Merle Kenney of Wellsville, on visitation of lodges, and William Wimmer, Jack Eccleston and Thomas Maley, all of East Liverpool, on veterans' hospitals, ritualistic work and publicity.

The new district committee—family participation—was presented by Michael J. Gerace. A dance was held Saturday night and members of the East Liverpool Elks entertained with a humorous skit.

Following the football game Friday between East Liverpool and Martins Ferry, about 74 Elks and their families were guests of the Martins Ferry lodge.

The local lodge will be host to the Weirton lodge here Friday when the Potters play Weirton.

Proposed By Faculty

Annuities Deduction Plan Tabled By Board

The Board of Education Monday night tabled until the Nov. 4 meeting a proposal from the East Liverpool Teachers Association to permit payroll deductions for all board employees to purchase "tax sheltered" annuities.

Under a federal law enacted in October 1961, employees of educational, scientific, religious, literary and charitable organizations do not have to pay federal income tax on amounts deducted for premium payments the board was told.

However, the law stipulates the money must be collected by the school board and turned over to the insurance company.

The proposal was presented by William Wilson, ELTA president, and explained by Leo C. Lawrence, an agent for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. and former board member.

Wilson said a poll of ELTA members showed 43 in favor of payroll deductions.

Mrs. Hazel Neiser, a past president who accompanied Wilson, said she discussed the proposition with the late Ralph W. Betts last spring and the association now feels there is sufficient interest to launch the plan.

Lawrence explained it would be entirely voluntary plan with the policies held by the individuals. He said there would be no cost to the board.

In response to a question from James Lowe, president, Lawrence said a teacher accepting a job in a district without payroll deductions would be required to make the premium payments himself and the amount would be subject to income tax since the premiums no longer would come under the "tax sheltered" law.

James Moss, vice president, pointed out the board might run into the cost of paying extra clerical help for the bookkeeping involved.

Miss Kathryn Liebschner, clerk-treasurer, said additional bookkeeping might be necessary if many companies are involved and checks must be written for each.

Supt. Paul H. Blair said the board might later run into the problem in hiring new teachers from a district where the plan was in effect. The board might be compelled to make the premium deduction and forward it to the original company.

Lowe said he believes the board should have some control over the number of companies but C. Walter Ashbaugh expressed doubt, pointing out the annuities would be purchased by individuals who could select the company they desired.

Lawrence then pointed out there are not too many life insurance companies selling annuities.

Ashbaugh declared, "If we can do anything to make it more attractive to hire new teachers, then we should do it."

Harry D. McConville, who said he believes the main purpose is to boost savings, suggested the plan is one means whereby the board can compete with other districts.

After Moss suggested he would like additional time to consider the proposition, Ashbaugh made the motion to table.

The Views Of The Candidates

It should not be surprising, though it always is, that the campaign for the national election gets under way so long before Election Day.

In actual truth, the campaign gets under way the day after Election Day and never falters. What is happening now, in October 1963, is an early peaking of the 1964 campaign.

No one doubts that John F. Kennedy will run for a second term. And no one doubts that his Republican opponent will be the candidate who seems to the Republican National Convention to pack the most wallop. At this moment, it would be Sen. Goldwater.

This wallop factor is a fundamental truth of politics overlooked only at the cost of clear understanding of what nearly always determines the choice of a candidate.

POLITICAL parties want to win. They want to be in power. They have no principles that cannot be altered to suit their thirst for office.

Democrats can be irreconcilably divided over civil rights for Negroes yet join hands to keep their party in power.

Republicans can be split deeply over fiscal policies yet line up behind a Dwight Eisenhower, whose fiscal policies were a continuation of the New Deal's madcap spending. But the Eisenhower wallop was unmatched. He could have won on either ticket in 1952. Issues didn't matter.

This is the way it works. The main objective is to win. Issues are secondary. They always have been.

Remember this in the months ahead when issues are the subject of thoughtful reviews; when political analysts discuss issues as if the 1964 election hinged on them.

It is not that issues are wholly unimportant. They are vitally important in some instances. It's only the fact that candidates are so much more important that issues are overshadowed.

What were the issues in 1960? Who can define them clearly now?

Who could define them then?

THE VOTE in 1960 was divided evenly between two personalities. That will be the basis of the division in 1964. Issues will be discussed. To some extent, they may color the decisions of voters, though this is a self-neutralizing effect in a political contest.

In the end, however, it is not what candidates said but how they said it that counts, especially since television and, before that, radio.

People vote for and against men, not platforms.

Cuba No Showcase For The Reds

A year after the Oct. 22 "eyeball-to-eyeball" confrontation between the United States and the Soviet Union over nuclear weapons in Cuba, the status, mission, even the number of Russian "technicians" on Fidel Castro's island remain foggy. The three nations involved seem content not to have the matter talked about.

The U.S. State Department this month refused to confirm or deny there were fewer than 7,600 Soviet troops in Cuba. The first of these arrived in May 1960. At maximum, the number is supposed to have reached 17,000.

The Citizens Committee for a Free Cuba agrees that withdrawal continues. Westerners in Moscow have been told by Premier Khrushchev that only training cadres remain.

THE CITIZENS COMMITTEE insists the Russians are being replaced by Chinese and other Communists. But some reports state flatly that there has been little overt sign of Chinese influence since the Sino-Soviet split.

Edwin M. Martin, assistant secretary of state for Inter-American affairs, puts it like this: "Castro's heart seems again to have shifted to Peking, leaving his stomach in Moscow."

That the Soviet Union and its satellites fill Cuba's stomach is no figure of speech. Earlier this year Raoul Castro admitted the fact that nobody in Cuba is starving is "thanks to aid from the Soviet Union." Soviet bloc aid has been pouring into Cuba at the rate of $2.6 million a day for the last year, about a million a day from the Soviet Union itself.

Russia had mortgaged the Cuban sugar crop for years to come, but Khrushchev allowed Castro to sell a million tons on the open market this year, thus taking advantage of higher world prices and giving Cuba a desperately needed windfall of close to $140 million in hard currency.

NO LOVE is lost between European Communists and the Castro regime, as evidenced by blunt words from Communist-bloc delegates at a recent economic conference at Prague.

Cuba was given an ultimatum to accept an economic commission from Eastern Europe which would have extraordinary powers to reform the Cuban economy and even the political system. Miklos Hetvanyi, Hungarian representative at Prague, expressed the general disenchantment when he complained, "Cuba, which should have been the example for the Western Hemisphere of how socialism works, has become the prototype of how a rich country can be mismanaged by a few ignorant hotheads, who have the audacity to blame us for their laziness."

Shouldn't Be Hard To Decide

The Ohio Highway Department is sounding out local opinion on how interstate highways running through cities should be maintained.

It shouldn't be hard to decide how this must be done over the long pull.

Unless these vastly expensive new roads are maintained up to prescribed standards, there is going to be a loud outcry from the motorists whose excise taxes have made them possible.

These motorists have no idea in whose jurisdiction the interstate highway system lies as they drive along them. These are not local highways in nature; they are interstate. They were paid for up to 90 per cent from the U.S. Treasury. It is to be expected that they will be maintained uniformly; that the motorists' investment will be protected.

Moon-Shooters

If we could be sure the pesky Russians would feel the same way about it, we'd dump the moon-shot project.

Americans as a whole are sick of it. We're mindful all of a sudden that it is fantastically expensive escapism.

That's what it is, of course—escapism. Escapism for both the United States and the Soviet Union.

In both cases, the idea of getting to the moon and back has been taken up by governments to divert attention from matters close to earth, such as Russia's inability to feed its own people and this country's inability to absorb its surplus labor supply.

It's something like mountain climbing, to which it often is compared. Find a mountain climber and chances are you will find someone full of frustrations about down-to-earth matters.

FIND A moon-shot enthusiast and you will find the same thing—a gang of ginks not too clear about how to pay the bills but full of dreams about getting to the nearest satellite.

They are practicing the same escapism found in the case of a homely girl who lives in the dream world of movies and television, surrounded by gossamer images of beauty.

Or the weakling man who goes to football games and screams his approval of rough work because he himself would be unable to carry on a brisk scrimmage with a 10-year-old.

Or the fellow who has botched up everything in his life that mattered but is hell-bent on making something tremendous with toothpicks.

Or, to get back to the point, the politician who keeps looking for something he can do to reflect glory on himself because otherwise he will go into history as a footnote—a passing reference.

ALL THIS has crossed the minds of Americans since moon-shot madness began to sizzle and pop. We have only one good reason to strap ourselves to pay for a journey to the moon and back. We don't want the Russians to beat us to it.

But if we could be sure the Russians also were seeing the folly of wasting so much wealth when so many things remain to be done on the earth—right here in the United States—we'd dump the project.

We're sick of it. We think the people backing it are frustrated, like mountain-climbers. But no one is proposing that the rest of us put up cash for the mountain-climbers. They're on their own, as they should be. Let 'em climb.

We think moon-shooters should go as far as they can go on their own resources, which would take them about 10 feet off the ground—in the light of a full moon.

This 'n That

The stature of the average human being declines at the rate of nearly 1/2-inch in 20 years after full growth is attained—this seeming consistent in both sexes.

The greatest recorded interval between the births of twins was 136 days, in a case reported from Strasbourg, France, in 1846.

If He Can Just Handle It OK!

U.S. Communists Keep Rolling Along

By Victor Riesel

Copies of two cables sent into the United States from powerful personalities in Eastern Europe are in the hands of our internal security people.

They consider the messages evidence that Chairman Khrushchev has decided this is the moment to upgrade the American Communist party in its international scheme of things.

These unique messages from behind the Iron Curtain are also interpreted as evidence of Mr. Khrushchev's eagerness to build another ally in his vendetta against the Chinese of Peiping. This means to insiders that the Soviets plan to pump more money, more manpower, more guidance into the American Communist movement to make it more acceptable during its recruiting drives inside labor and among the youth.

These cables are birthday greetings to Ben Davis of New York, who is considered by our government to be national secretary of the CPUSA.

But these are not ordinary birthday greetings. They are dispatched by men who usually reserve their enthusiasm for heads of state. One cable came from none other than Walter Ulbricht, first secretary of the Socialist Unity party (SED) central committee of East Germany.

ULBRICHT RUNS the Communist section of divided Germany without bothering to put his iron hand in any glove, much less in velvet which is scarce. If Khrushchev's nose twitches, Ulbricht sneezes. He took time recently to cable Ben Davis that:

"On behalf of the German Democratic Republic working people and all patriotic elements of our people, the SED Central Committee conveys to you cordial congratulations and fraternal greetings on your 60th birthday. We wish you, the fighter for the cause of the American working class... for peace... and socialism many more years of successful work."

There was more to this message. But equally as startling was the fact that the powerful Todor Zhivkov, first secretary of the Bulgarian Communist party central committee, was also instructed by Moscow to dispatch a cable saying: "To us Bulgarians your name is indissolubly linked with the noble cause of the emancipation of the American working class..."

"Your devotion to this cause, your unflinching faith in the triumph of Marxist-Leninist ideas as well as the manliness and valor with which you resist rabid anti-Communism... evoke profound admiration in every Communist and in all working people in Bulgaria."

THE CABLES were addressed to Davis as "secretary of the national executive committee of the U.S. Communist party."

The use of this title by East European Communist party chiefs is significant. The party has been declared a Communist-action organization "substantially directed, dominated and controlled by the Soviet Union. As national secretary of this American Communist party, Ben Davis must under the law register with the U.S. government."

Davis has refused to register. He has been arrested and indicted. His trial is scheduled for Oct. 29th. But it will undoubtedly be postponed because there must first be a ruling handed down by the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington on the nature of the Communist party itself.

The Court of Appeals has now had the Communist party matter before it for four months but has not moved. Thus the Communist party and its leaders are free to operate—in utter defiance of laws which have already been upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Without quaking in fear of it, or insinuating that it will seize some state capital tomorrow, it can be reported that the party's impact now is far more than would be expected from a movement of 9,000 formal members.

IT HAS BEEN instructed to come out in the open—during my recent trip to the Midwest, I heard of meetings which are attracting hundreds of people.

In New York a birthday banquet for Ben Davis drew more than 800 partisans on Oct. 6. The United States was denounced; Castro's Cuba was praised; Khrushchev was hailed.

Some $3,500 was raised—virtually all of it in cash. Thus the Communists function openly. Yet no one can trace the party's flow of cash. Not even the Internal Revenue Service which has been trying to collect from the CP for some time.

Thus the Communists—though many are under indictment and their party has been convicted in the criminal courts—move swiftly to exploit the new "co-existence" which Chairman Khrushchev is peddling.

Letter To Editor

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

I wish to thank the East Liverpool fire department for saving the property I own on Hazel St.

All the houses on that hill would have burned up if the department did not have the new booster tank truck. The firemen did a wonderful job.

A heavy cable fell over the fireplug they were going to hook and they could not use the plug right in front of the house. The city income tax really showed up here in having that truck. The police department did a good job, too, on the traffic.

Thank you, fellows, for a job well done. And Chief Bryan, you sure worked hard with your men.

De Gaulle Holds Key Spot

By David Lawrence

Change In U.S. Policy Discussed

A major change in American military and foreign policy is gradually. The objective is to maintain Allied unity and yet decrease the expense for the American people with respect to the maintenance of U.S. troops in Europe, which costs about 1 billion a year.

This country has spent at least 50 billion for the defense of Europe since World War II ended. There still are more than one million Americans—soldiers and their families—stationed overseas.

The first step in changing policy is in the form of a test whereby an armored division of 15,000 men is airlifted from the United States to Germany within 72 hours. Theoretically this might mean that American troops could be withdrawn from Europe and dependence placed hereafter on the quick transport of divisions by air. But that's not the present purpose. Rather it's to demonstrate that, if the Western Allies build up their own troop divisions, the United States could be depended upon for prompt reinforcements in an emergency. Virtually all of the American divisions on duty in Europe might then be withdrawn, but this isn't the present intention.

The main idea now is to persuade Western Europe, which has 250 million population and a booming economy, that the time is at hand to begin taking over more of the military load and expense from the United States.

What does all this mean in the face of the growing realization that a nuclear war means mutual suicide?

First, when the treaty banning certain nuclear tests was signed recently, the military strategists did not stop thinking of the prospect of war.

Second, they became even more concerned over "limited war," a term applied to the use of conventional forces and weapons.

THERE IS a realistic recognition of the fact that recurring friction is potentially capable of producing armed conflict. The problem will be to keep "limited war" from becoming "unlimited."

Gen. Eisenhower during his two terms as president of the United States considered preparations for "limited war" as secondary and emphasized instead a buildup of nuclear weapons. Today that result has been fully achieved, and there's a nuclear stalemate in the world. Mr. Eisenhower said last week that American forces in Western Europe now could be reduced to one division.

The Pentagon disagrees. Deputy Defense Secretary Roswell Gilpatrick, in a speech last Saturday, declared that while American troops might be withdrawn, there is no intention of making such a drastic cut as Mr. Eisenhower suggested.

The truth is that the Western Alliance is in trouble. It lacks unity. Some of its members, like France, show a tendency to develop independent or isolated policies. In fact, Gen. de Gaulle predicts that the United States eventually will militarily pull out of Europe and he offers this possibility as an excuse for wishing a separate nuclear force and for refusing to sign the partial test-ban treaty.

Indeed, the French president now is reported to be flirting with the idea of recognizing the Communist regime in Peiping. This in itself would add to the disunity. It looks as though it's a kind of trading maneuver to get nuclear help from America.

THE UNITED STATES, therefore, cannot at this time give the impression that it is getting ready to withdraw its military forces from Europe altogether. To do so would discourage the West German government, which has 12 divisions on duty and is contributing thereby its full share in the military defense of Western Europe.

The question really is how long the Bonn government can depend on De Gaulle's policies. Unless a sizeable army of French troops is on active duty, the Russians could sweep across the northern sector of Europe and overrun France.

A helpful but not necessarily controlling argument used by the government here in talks with European leaders is that the United States has been steadily losing gold to pay for its military expenses abroad and that the imbalance in the outflow of gold is creating a serious threat to the future of our monetary system.

So the experimentation in policy making goes on, and this week sees the first of several moves designed to convince Western Europe that America could withdraw some of its troops and still get its forces overseas promptly if an emergency develops.

The United States has not yet been able to influence Gen. de Gaulle to become cooperative. Will the airlift operation give public opinion in France a dramatic assurance of the prompt aid that can be forthcoming from America at any time or tend to confirm the point recently made by the French president that the United States cannot be depended upon indefinitely to protect France?

THE MAKERS of U.S. foreign policy will have to reach some kind of understanding with the president of France before military policy can become definitive and permit the expenses of the United States to be materially reduced.

Maybe Gen. de Gaulle's much-talked-of visit to Washington in a few months will furnish the needed opportunity to bring about a turn for the better in the tenuous relations existing today between France and the United States.

Battle Of The Pills

By Joseph R. Hixson

WASHINGTON — A behind-the-scenes doneybrook is raging between ordinary doctors and some big-name experts on medical school faculties. The battle is over ingredients used in pills for the common cold.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) formerly permitted drug companies to put germ-fighting antibiotics in cold tablets some doctors like to prescribe.

But because colds are caused by viruses — and antibiotics don't affect viruses — the FDA never has been happy about the situation.

RECENTLY the agency asked six leading U.S. doctors known for their studies of antibiotics what they thought of including those drugs in cold pills.

The doctors, all faculty members of leading medical schools, told the FDA that antihistamines and nose decongestants should not be combined in a pill with such "wonder drugs" as penicillin and sulfa.

That did it. Practicing physicians, already fuming because they felt the backgrounds of the six doctors were "too academic," were infuriated when, as a result of the six doctors' findings, the FDA ordered pharmaceutical houses in August to pull the antibiotics and sulfa out of about 50 brands of cold pills.

THE FDA extended the 30-day grace and protest period to Nov. 15. The committee chairman, Dr. Harry W. Dowling of the University of Illinois College of Medicine, and one of his colleagues, Dr. Max Finland, an expert on antibiotics at Harvard Medical School, advised FDA Commissioner George Larrick that it might be a good idea for the committee to meet again and reconsider.

If the verdict is changed, the American Medical Association will be happy.

Although the AMA has consistently opposed the prescription of antibiotics for colds, it has just as consistently backed the individual doctor's right to disregard AMA advice or that of any expert panel.

DEFENDERS of cold pills—antibiotics cite reports that there are fewer complications of colds when antibiotics are given. Opponents cite equally well authenticated studies showing that antibiotics accomplish nothing in this area.

The pharmaceutical industry sees the ban as an encroachment on its hotly defended right to supply combinations of drugs in one pill to doctors for various conditions.

Swimmer Fights For Life After Boat Severs Both Legs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — While a champion swimmer continued his battle for life despite loss of both legs to the propeller of a fishing boat, a controversy grew over who, if anybody, was responsible.

James Small, 27, former University of California athlete now a stock broker, lay in the Army's Letterman General Hospital where he was taken after his Sunday mangle in boat-crowded San Francisco Bay.

By Monday night he had been given 56 units of blood — 43 of whole blood and 13 of plasma.

Army doctors, amazed that Small was alive at all, said they noted further encouraging signs — such as normal blood pressure, return to consciousness and stabilization of other vital signs. It was unknown whether Small knew he had lost both legs in the wake of his collision with the boat, Pacific Dawn.

Meanwhile, the Coast Guard said it was not aware that Small and 10 other swimmers were swimming from Sausalito, north of the Golden Gate, past Alcatraz Island to San Francisco's Aquatic Park.

The Dolphin Swim & Boat Club, which for 47 years has sponsored such a swim annual, said it had notified the Coast Guard last spring in the form of a swimming schedule which Frank Drum of the club said included Sunday's race.

Capt. Richard Baxter, chief of Coast Guard operations, said he had seen no such notice.

The Guard commander, Rear Adm. William Winbeck, said that in any event "we had no authority to patrol swimmers in a race — but if we had known and one of our boats had been near" any Coast Guard crew would have done what it could to prevent such an accident.

Drum said eight rowboats accompanied the swimmers but Small was one of three swimmers shepherded by one boat. When one of the trio dropped back the rowboat let Small and James Baird go ahead.

2nd Trial Opens Before Jury For Columbiana Man

LISBON — A Columbiana village man convicted by a jury Monday afternoon on a charge of non-support went on trial again this morning in Common Pleas Court on an indictment alleging driving while intoxicated.

Defendant in the two cases is Arvid Barkley. A verdict of guilty in the non-support case was returned yesterday by a jury of four men and eight women. Barkley waived the customary three-way wait to allow him to file a motion for a new trial and requested probation. Judge Joel H. Sharp ordered a probation investigation.

Barkley was indicted on the non-support charge by the September Grand Jury. He pleaded not guilty at arraignment Sept. 24.

Judge Sharp also is presiding at the trial on the traffic charge.

The jury in the non-support case was comprised of: Carl Wollam, Mildred Cooper, Naomi Drane, Joann Prince and Gladys Roberts, all East Liverpool; Dorothy Kidney of Wellsville; Martha Capel and Olive Earl of Salem; G. V. Weinstock and Lawrence Reynolds of Lisbon; Frank Thompson of East Palestine and Hazel Smith of Rogers.

These are deposits scraped from a dirty carburetor. They can cause stalling, rough idling, gasoline waste!

Boron cleans carburetors

Sohio has put a special Carburetor Cleaner in Boron Gasoline that dissolves dirt deposits and washes them away!

To show you how dirty a carburetor can get, Sohio cut one in half. And the hard deposits that had formed inside around the throttle plate were scraped out.

Deposits like these are caused by tiny dirt particles in crankcase fumes from your own engine, in the exhaust of other cars around you in traffic, and in the atmosphere itself. Your air cleaner can't trap all these dirt particles. Some do get through to your carburetor and can build up deposits in the throttle plate section. They can block the air flow to your engine when you are idling. The result is stalling, rough idling and wasted gasoline.

If your carburetor is already dirty, the special Carburetor Cleaner in Boron Gasoline will clean it. Because the deposits are hard, the cleaning process may take time. But the end result will be a Boron Clean Carburetor! If your carburetor is already clean, regular use of Boron Gasoline will keep it clean!

Dental Laboratory Operator Asks Jury Try $1,000 Suit

While a Municipal Court jury was hearing one civil action Monday afternoon, a demand for a jury trial in another civil action was being filed in the court offices.

The jury trial was requested by Atty. Ben H. Berman, counsel for George Prokop doing business as Prokop Dental Laboratories, 247 W. 6th St., defendant in a suit filed by the Royal State Bank of New York.

The New York institution is seeking judgment for $1,000 plus interest along with $16.50 without interest and costs.

The action filed Feb. 1, 1961, by Atty. Louis Gelbman of the Youngstown firm of Nadler & Nadler, attorneys for the plaintiff, alleges that on Jan. 29, 1959, Prokop executed eight negotiable promissory notes to the Permadent Products Corp. for $125 cash.

The notes, due on June 15, July 15, Aug. 15, Sept. 15, Oct. 15, Nov. 15, Dec. 15, 1959, and Jan. 15, 1960, were endorsed by Permadent the following day to the plaintiff.

The notes were presented for payment on each due date but the defendant refused payment and the plaintiff was charged $1.65 by the Pottery Bank & Trust Co. each time.

The defendant filed an answer on Feb. 24 and an amended answer was filed April 25, 1962.

In the amended answer, the defendant claimed he entered into a contract with the Permadent firm to purchase certain products and the company agreed to send a competent instructor to teach employees of the laboratory in their use.

The contract was breached when Permadent failed to send the instructor despite demands for performance, Atty. Berman alleges.

So nice to have helpful neighbors

Ohio's electric companies "share" electricity...

...It helps us serve you better!

Interconnections tie together the electric companies serving Ohio. This large network of service lines, which includes interconnections with many other states, greatly increases the dependability of your electric service. Started more than 30 years ago, these interconnections are being expanded as growth requires.

Sharing electricity in this fashion is another way we serve you better. Sharing helps keep electricity low in price, too. One reason: There's no need to build large stand-by facilities.

Ohio is a key state in the biggest of the nation's power pools—a group which includes 119 utilities serving 31 states!

It's a fine example of what can be accomplished by investor-owned companies helping each other in a neighborly manner to serve you better!

Southern Hospitality Shown Mississippi Driver In Court

The old southern hospitality sometimes crops up north of the Mason and Dixon Line. Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff demonstrated to a Mississippi man who faced him today on a traffic charge.

Thomas W. Lishman of Merigold, Miss., was accused of improper auto registration. Arrested Monday at 9 p. m. in Church Alley, he told the court he had purchased the car here yesterday and had not obtained license plates.

He was following a rule which in Mississippi allows a motorist 48 hours to obtain the tags for a newly-purchased car, Lishman said.

Addressing the judge in a thick southern drawl, he said: "It was ignorance of the law, sir, rather than a deliberate violation."

"I feel we can do as much for you here as they would do in Mississippi," Judge Chertoff said. "I will continue this case until Friday at 9 a. m. to allow you to obtain plates."

But Lishman obtained the tags about 10 this morning and returned to court to show them to the judge. He was fined $10 and costs, with the fine suspended on payment of costs.

Out Of The Air

By ALAN GILL

Hartfelt Discusses America's Decline

"Up in flames," my neighbor, Bill Hartfelt, said, wagging his head sadly. "A whole civilization up in flames." And he touched a match to the pile of leaves. "What are you talking about?" I asked him. "You and your darned television documentaries, that's what!" he snorted. "They're undermining the entire foundation of our American aesthetics, that's what. You and that darned Huntley and that darned Eric Sevareid and that —"

Alan Gill

"HARTFELT, pull yourself together and put down that silly rake. I've brought you a beer." "Well, pour it and then listen. Our greatest civilizations have flourished on fiction: the Greeks with their great story tellers like Homer and their great theatrical tragedies and comedies; the Elizabethans with their robust stage; the France of Hugo, Corneille and Racine; the America of Melville, Hawthorne and Twain.

"Freedoms flourish in the ages of men like Sophocles, Shakespeare and Mark Twain, and life is worth living. As soon as the documentarians take over, bingo! The joy and freedom go out of things."

"ARE YOU accusing David Brinkley of —"

"Of murdering our civilization? Of course! (Here's mud in your eye, Gill!) The Greeks built history's finest culture on fiction. Then, as slaves, they taught the Romans a little appreciation of the arts.

"But the Romans soon turned from the fiction of their folklore and theater and fell with a crash that's still resounding. They turned to the circus, which is nonfiction. They turned to chariot races and the devouring of Christians.

"Their great playwright, Terence, complained loudly that the tight-rope walkers and prize fighters were luring the crowds from the theater. A glorious wasteland.

"WHAT'S WRONG with the Russians today? They're living in a nonfiction world. There's no artistic freedom to give the lifeboat them any color. No fiction.

"And it's happening here, Gill. Fiction is disappearing from our magazines, and we're raising a generation of gray-faced zombies on that pallid diet, the article.

"You can't dance or sing an article, Gill! Nonfiction has come to dominate the book world. The theater is shrinking, and so are the movies. The story is dead.

"Our only remaining world of creativity is television. And what do the TV columnists write all their columns about? The documentaries! Those leeches at our throats!"

"HOLD ON a minute, Hartfelt," I said softly, as he kicked at the burning leaves. "When a documentary is good, you can do nothing but praise it, can you?"

"The documentary often is good because the producer has three months — sometimes — in which to make it. He's got a budget, time and the excitement of actual people and places to work with.

"The producer of 'The Lucy Show' has seven days. Television fiction, to use your word, is the thing that's dead. The documentary is alive."

"Precisely. As alive as a chariot race or a lion eating a Christian. If you have things your way, Gill, then the liveliness of televised politics eventually will destroy any scrap of interest we still have in 'Gunsmoke.' When 'Gunsmoke' goes, there goes a once-robust civilization with it."

"WELL, I'll not comment on your calling politics nonfiction, Hartfelt. But I'll take exception to your implication that documentaries loom large in TV programming or in the ratings, either. There are darned few of them and they're not watched by many people. So what you're fearing is a ghost."

"Ah, Gill, Gill!" Sighing, Hartfelt placed a hand on my shoulder, the beer can sending an amber trickle down my mackinaw.

"It's getting bigger by the minute and you can't even see it. We're strangling our fiction writers with our political, sociological and psychological circus."

"With it, we're strangling our hardiness, our freedoms and eventually the republic itself."

"WHAT WOULD you have me do?" I asked.

"Simple. Declare in your reviews that 'Youth Forum,' 'Issues and Answers,' 'Portrait' and 'CBS Reports' are the enemies of the state and that our last-minute salvation lies in 'The Travels of Jaimie McPheeters' and 'My Favorite Martian.'"

"There's not a moment to lose."

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Children Need Sunday School Training

Most parents who are Protestants want their children to go to Sunday School, and some parents who are not themselves members of any religious group do also. They want their children to share in this community activity and believe Sunday school attendance to Dr. Garry Meyers be wholesome for them. As a rule, the younger children are, after they can toddle, more eager to go to Sunday school. Some children, after they are ten or twelve, are not so eager to go, as they may desire to have freedom for other activities instead. Also, there's a marked dropping off in attendance by teenagers.

It may be very easy for parents to send the younger children to Sunday school. But if they want these children to keep on going after the age of nine or ten they go with their children.

THE SAME APPLIES, as a rule to church attendance by children. In many Sunday schools, there are classes for parents, some of which discuss the moral and religious education of their children and ways of encouraging their interest in Sunday school and church.

Some religious groups, which rarely have Sunday school, tend to put strong emphasis on home instruction in religion and urge parents to take their children to church services with them, sometimes at a very early age. Besides, many of our Catholic brethren enter their children of school age in a parochial school where they get considerable religious instruction. Some other religious groups do likewise.

Perhaps most of us do not realize the socializing effect of Sunday School on very young children. Some little children from two to five or six, who have had few playmates in their home neighborhood, gain a vast deal of useful experience from mingling with other children of their own age at Sunday school.

Also, some churches provide a nursery or kindergarten department for very young children while their parents attend the adult worship services.

NOT ONLY ARE parents responsible for keeping their children willing or eager to go to Sunday school after they are eight or ten, but Sunday school teachers are also. The older the child becomes, as a rule, the more teaching skill is required to interest and hold him and, for the teenager, still more teaching skill may be required.

Unfortunately, religious zeal and the willingness of a person to be a Sunday school teacher, don't always guarantee that this person will do well at it. On the other hand, the good influence of the person herself or himself may be greater than what is taught.

Board Hears Both Sides

New Work Week Law Still Vague

The Board of Education appeared to be in as much of a quandary Monday night, as it was in a previous session, after a lengthy discussion of a new state law establishing a 40-hour work week for all non-teaching employees.

The board heard Atty. Robert L. Drury, legal counsel for the Ohio Education Association, offer some points, and Harold West, representing building custodians, who are members of the Ohio Association of Public School Employees, offer counter-arguments.

SUPT. PAUL H. Blair and the custodians have been meeting amicably in an attempt to reach a decision on how the law effective Sept. 16, applies to the custodial force.

The board agreed to invite Drury to last night's session to explain his views of the law after Blair reported at the meeting Oct. 7 that he would like the law clarified before making any commendation to the board.

However, Drury said he could only give his personal opinions since no interpretation has been made by the courts. West told the board he presumes OAPSE will make a court test.

Several board members indicated following the meeting that they believe a court test will be necessary, although the city board may not be involved.

The crux of the problem, according to Drury, is whether the board currently is complying with the law.

THE OEA counsel termed Drury's General William Saxbe's opinion as "nebulous" and "not too helpful" to city school boards since the opinion is predicated on situations where there are no contracts.

He pointed out the contract law does not apply to city school districts since custodians are under Civil Service.

The new statute covers all non-teaching employees except those in supervisory positions. In East Liverpool's case, Miss Kathryn Liebschner, clerk-treasurer, and George Shuffert, superintendent of buildings and grounds, would be exempted.

West pointed out the salary schedule for custodians is set up on a 10½-month or 12-month basis, but there never has been an agreement between the custodians and the board on the number of hours constituting a work week.

He said the city custodial staff has been advised by Steve Lewis, executive secretary of the OAPSE, the law applies to the city school district.

"All school districts must comply. The question is whether they currently are complying," Drury replied.

ASKED BY James Lowe, president, for his opinion, Blair said he has given the problem considerable thought and has told the custodians they would be treated "fair and square."

Blair said it seemed odd to him that custodians have been working a 44-hour week for several years but maintain no pattern has been established.

To arrive at an hourly rate, Blair said it is his understanding to take the weekly wage and divide by 44. If the custodians continue to work 44 hours, there would be no reduction in pay and if they worked more than 44 hours they would be paid overtime at the hourly rate.

However, the superintendent pointed out if the custodians were paid the same salary for a 40-hour week as they receive for 44 hours, it could cost the board over $11,000 more per year.

THE COST might be twice as much if they worked a 44-hour week and were paid on a 40-hour rate, he said.

Asked by Blair if his interpretation of fixing the hourly rate was correct, Drury answered, "I believe so."

West promptly disagreed, pointing out the law provides no reduction in pay.

In response to a question from Lowe asking if a pattern has been established since the custodians have been working a 44-hour week for some years, Drury replied in the affirmative.

The legal counsel pointed out the law provides the dollars must remain the same after the number of hours has been established.

WEST AGAIN pointed out the law provides for a 40-hour week. "We want to know whether the board will comply."

The superintendent said he believes the problem to be in setting the hourly rate, adding that he believes the board is with-in its rights in using the 44-

Fund Drive's Reports Due

The report sessions are expected to push the drive to the 50 per cent level of the $95,000 campaign for 10 area agencies by the end of the week.

Division leaders asked workers to make reservations for the breakfasts by phoning the YMCA or to submit reports prior to the assigned breakfasts and advise the YMCA, Dawson said.

John Owen Gets Water Utility Post

John D. Owen, sanitary inspector for the Board of Health, has been appointed utility supplyman for the water department.

Donald T. Duke, water department superintendent, said Owen was named to the $390-a-month post by the Board of Public Utilities at a meeting Saturday.

Owen, who scored the highest grade in a recent Municipal Civil Service Commission examination for the post, will replace Joseph Burgess on Nov. 1, Duke said.

Burgess already has started his duties as supplyman, succeeding Mark Stone, who resigned. Both jobs pay $390.

Meanwhile, Duke said Continental-Fremont, Inc., of Fremont completed installation of a new steel conical roof on the No. 2 standpipe on Henry Ave. on Saturday.

The company, which received the contract last July 5 on its low bid of $1,983, started the job on Oct. 12.

Beaver Case Hearing Set

BEAVER — County Treasurer Russell Milnes of Aliquippa is scheduled for a hearing Wednesday before Justice of the Peace Joseph Gerace of Rochester on charges of misbehavior in office and fraud in connection with travel expenses.

The hearing was scheduled when a temporary writ of habeas corpus granted by Judge Robert E. McCreary Monday was dismissed at another hearing in Beaver County Court later yesterday.

Yesterday's hearing was scheduled after Milnes' attorney had presented a petition for the writ, demanding an immediate hearing. Judge McCreary dismissed the writ, commenting that he believed a case had been made by the prosecutor.

Milnes was arrested Friday by Constable John L. Beighey on information filed by William Kovolenko, a former state assemblyman and a candidate for county commissioner on the Constitutional Assembly Party, charging Milnes with misbehavior in office and fraud as a result of filing of vouchers for travel expenses in connection with Milnes' duties as a treasurer and the payment of public monies in reimbursement. Milnes is Democratic candidate for Recorder of deeds in the November election.

Yugoslavia's Chief Urges Summit Talk

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—President Tito of Yugoslavia urged today a summit meeting to chart a code for peaceful coexistence for the nations of the world.

He made the proposal in a speech prepared for delivery before the U.N. General Assembly in which he appealed urgently for an end to the cold war.

The visiting Yugoslav leader asserted that the fundamental political question facing mankind is coexistence among states with different economical and political systems.

Tito put it this way:

"It would be of particular importance for the further improvement of international relations and for the strengthening of peace in the world for the United Nations — as the most representative gathering of equal and sovereign nations and as the most prominent forum through which world opinion expresses itself — further to elaborate and to codify the principles of peaceful coexistence."

The board also approved the use of the Westgate School library by the Field Enterprises Educational Corp. for five training conferences at a fee of $5 per session plus custodial fees. Patrol Cites 3 Area Drivers

Three drivers were cited after district accidents Monday and today in which no one was injured, the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon reported.

James Kleinman, 37, of Salem was charged after his pickup truck struck a car operated by Helen Toolston, 38, of Salineville R. D. 3 on Route 45 north of Lisbon at 8:10 a. m.

Officers said he attempted to pass the woman's car as she made a left turn. He was charged with excessive speed.

Lwanda Allen, 53, of East Liverpool R. D. 3 was cited for excessive speed for road conditions after her car veered off County Rd. 1043 about 1½ miles north of the city Monday morning and tore down 70-feet of guardrails.

Ronald Daugherty, 19, of Leetonia R. D. was arrested for failure to stop in the assured clear distance after his auto hit the rear of a stopped car operated by Dora Melczak, 26, of New Waterford R. D. on Route 14 east of Salem yesterday.

Officials Air 'Master Plan' Steps By City

A delegation of three city officials went to Columbus Monday to confer with the Ohio Development Department on the municipality's next steps in awarding a contract for preparation of a "master plan."

East Liverpool was represented by Safety - Service Director Robert Owen, Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper and Don Eckert, chairman of the Planning Commission.

They met with Carroll V. Hill, head of the firm of Carroll V. Hill Associates of Columbus, which has been chosen by the planning commission to draft the "master plan." The city officials and the planner then conferred with Ross Lowes, a representative of the Development Department.

Owen said the principal aim in the conference was to obtain details on the steps the city should follow in awarding a contract to the Hill concern and getting the work under way.

The next step will be for Council to consider legislation authorizing the administration to sign a contract with the Hill concern, which has offices in Pittsburgh and Columbus, he said.

About a month ago, the Planning Commission indicated it will recommend that the Hill concern receive the contract for preparation of the plan.

The action followed several years of investigation of the proposals from several professional planning concerns.

East Liverpool expects to pay about a third of the cost of the plan preparation, obtaining the balance in federal funds.

Tax

The five were among nine against whom charges were filed Oct. 2 by D. G. Wilkinson, city income tax commissioner.

Judge Chertoff called each of the defendants' names from the bench, then ordered each case dismissed. He commented that the tax office advised the court that payment had been made by each of the defendants.

McCoy and Everhart were accused of two violations each — failure to file a final report on 1962 income or an estimate of 1963 earnings.

Fitch and Peters were charged with failure to file 1963 estimates and Adkins was charged with not filing a final return on his 1962 income.

Meanwhile, Wilkinson indicated he will file another series of charges Thursday — part of a continuing effort to force compliance with the income tax law. To date, 50 persons have been haled before the court on charges of failing to file reports or make payments.

Another Hearing Waits Defendant

Ronald Howell, 29, of Newell, charged with assault and battery of Mrs. Betty Harris, 1181 Lisbon St., East Liverpool, was given a hearing Monday in County Judge James L. MacDonald's court at Lisbon but disposition was continued pending another hearing in Juvenile Court. Bond of $500 was set by the county court.

Howell and Ronald Dunn, 33, also of Newell, had pleaded not guilty to neglect and dependency at a preliminary hearing Monday before Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin, who set $2,500 bonds for each for Oct. 31 at 1 p. m.

Mrs. Harris and Mrs. June McCoy, 736 Minerva St., East Liverpool, had pleaded guilty to contributing to the delinquency of their eight minor children in that they were with the two men two to three days when the argument started between Howell and Mrs. Harris. Dunn and Mrs. McCoy were not fighting, according to Juvenile Officer James Miller, who filed the charges in Juvenile Court. The two men were arrested by Wellsville police after a chase on Route 39.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Why don't people keep their mouths shut when they don't know what they are talking about?

I'm the mother of twin boys, 8 years old. I had a very difficult pregnancy and almost lost my life when the twins were born. The doctor advised me against trying to have more children so my husband and I decided to adopt. It took two years before we were able to get our adorable little girl, Laurie, now 5 years old and what a joy!

Last week Laurie came home crying as if her heart would break. One of her playmates told her his mother said we couldn't possibly love her as much as we love the twins because they are of our own flesh and blood and she is not.

I tried to comfort the child and reassure her, but she hasn't been the same since. She seems withdrawn and unhappy. Can you suggest any way we can help her?—FURIOUS MOTHER.

Dear Mother: I trust (and hope) that Laurie had been told by you and your husband that she was adopted before the neighbor kid got to her. If not, perhaps this is part of the reason for her unhappiness.

Continue to give Laurie generous doses of love and attention. Let her know that as a chosen child she is special—and that you were lucky to get her because so many others wanted her, too.

Anniversary Song

Dear Ann: Last year I wrote to you about a problem I was having with my husband. He agreed to do as you said and it worked out fine. Now we have another problem we'd like you to settle. Again he has promised to take your advice.

Our eighth wedding anniversary is coming up. It falls on the opening day of the hunting season. He wants to go hunting with the fellows. I say a wedding anniversary is a lot more important than hunting, and that he belongs home with me.

We get along a lot better than most of our friends and I would say our marriage is a good one. Please settle this because we've been talking about nothing else for two weeks. Thank you.—MRS. CALL OF THE WILD.

Dear Mrs. Wild: And just what kind of an anniversary celebration do you think you'll have with a long-faced martyr who would rather be hunting? Of course his choice shows he's a self-centered little boy but let him go anyway. Every marriage should have at least one adult and in your home you'll have to be it.

Mother Of The Groom

Dear Ann: Our son soon is to be married to a lovely girl.

It is customary where I come from for the mother of the bride to ask the mother of the groom for the names of close relatives to assist at the reception. Our family is small but some members will be coming a great distance for the wedding.

I'd like my brother to be at the punch bowl. My husband has two wonderful aunts, charming and well bred, and I'd like to have them pour.

I realize the bride's family puts on the wedding and the reception but it's our son's wedding, too, and it would seem like a slap in the face if our family were ignored.

Please tell me if I should inform the mother of the bride that I feel strongly about this.—A. B. W.

Dear A. B. W.: The groom's family should indeed be included in the reception activities. If the suggestion comes from you, however, it might be resented.

Ask your son to mention it gently to his fiancée and let her take it from there. If you hear no more about it, let the matter drop. The unpleasantness which might result would not be worth it.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Vote Delayed By Council On 2 Ordinances

Because the absence of two members made it impossible to pass two ordinances under suspension of rules, Council Monday night tabled the measures until the next session Nov. 18.

Council was to have considered: Legislation transferring the city bus franchise of the Inter-City Transit Co. from John W. Young to his brother-in-law, Victor S. Houser, who plans to operate it under the name "City Transit System."

An ordinance amending 1954 legislation setting regulations and inspection fees for milk producers and processors doing business in East Liverpool. The measure was requested by the Health Board last month.

The milk regulation measure is essentially unchanged from the 1954 ordinance except it provides processors will pay a $3 to $5 annual inspection-service fee for producers from whom they purchase milk, then reimburse themselves by collecting from the producers.

It also places a limit of 400 on the number of producers for which any processor will be required to collect the inspection-service fee.

Various inspection fees are left unchanged in the ordinance.

Council approved a motion to table the legislation by Councilman Robert W. Sample Jr., chairman of the ordinance committee. He pointed out that with two members absent Council could give only first reading to the two measures.

Councilmen excused Councilman Kenneth C. Berg, a patient in the Oakland Veterans Hospital at Pittsburgh awaiting surgery, and Councilman Edward Massey, who was working.

Missionary Due At Chester Event

The Rev. John W. Anderson, a veteran Nazarene teacher and missionary to India, who is on his fourth furlough, will be speaker Wednesday night at 7:30 at the Chester church.

He was assigned to India in 1936 by the Nazarene Department of Foreign Missions. For the past four years, he has been a teacher in the Bible School in Basim and also served as an administrator in the Nazarene hospital there.

A native of Warren, he was graduated from Eastern Nazarene College, Wollaston, Mass., and Boston University. He took graduate work at the University of Pittsburgh and Western Theological Seminary.

Prior to going to India, Rev. Anderson taught two years in a high school and then served as a pastor three years at the Nazarene church at Moundsville.

The Rev. Robert P. Thomas is pastor.

School Board Avoids Stand On Tax Issue

Although four members individually expressed hope the city income tax is retained, the Board of Education Monday night declined to take an official position on the question.

H. James Allison appeared to ask the board to lend the BOP Committee whatever support it could in campaigning for retention of the tax at the Nov. 5 election.

James Moss, vice president, said the board "has no right to take part in the city income tax and I for one don't want it to take part." Reminded that school crossing guards are paid from tax proceeds, Moss replied "there were school guards before there was an income tax."

C. Walter Ashbaugh said he believes whoever is elected mayor will need the tax, but said he is not sure what the board can do. "Individually, yes but officially I'm not sure."

Mrs. Jessie Dunlop said as an individual she is in favor of the tax and as president of the City Federation of Women's Clubs invited Allison to speak at the next meeting.

Harry D. McConville said he is "very much" for the tax and James Lowe, president, said he doesn't see how the city will function without the tax.

Miss Kathryn Liebschner, clerk-treasurer, questioned whether the board legally could take action and Supt. Paul H. Blair suggested appropriate organizations might be the parent-teacher groups.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: Here's a good method for keeping up with your small children's socks:

At bath time when you remove their shirt or gown, simply pin the little socks to either shirt or gown with some safety pins.

These may be thrown in your washing machine and all washed and dried at the same time and are never lost. But the best part about it is... that they are always together when you need them. In other words when you grab a shirt you don't have to go looking for those two tiny little socks!

CATHERINE ANTHONY.

You are a darling! Every Mommy will love you, Kitty.

HELOISE

DEAR HELOISE: When I buy new top sheets I immediately rip out the small hem and sew a large hem in its place to exactly match the top. This distributes the wear evenly and the sheets last twice as long. When they are turned upside down no one knows the difference!

IZZY.

DEAR HELOISE: If you keep a piece of fine sandpaper in your sewing machine drawer, when the needle needs sharpening just take a few stitches in the sandpaper and the needle will sharpen itself.

L. C.

DEAR HELOISE: I have been keeping house for 35 years, and finally had the problem of two pans that were stuck together so tight, that all of my prying and yanking didn't do a bit of good. (There was water trapped between them.)

I turned my stove burner on low and put the pots on the burner until the water started steaming, and they just lifted out! This often happens to cooking utensils. Amazing how this separates them.

E. SCHULTZE.

DEAR HELOISE: I love my nylon net "dish-mitt" which I made from Heloise's famous nylon net.

Instead of using just a single square of nylon net, I folded it until I had eight thicknesses... 10x10 inches, with the folded edges all on one side.

I stitched the remaining two sides, then turned my mitten inside out and sewed it again, thereby making a french seam. I have no jagged edges and I can stick my hand inside of the nylon mitten and use it for washing everything except my Formica table top.

DOROTHY WEGE.

Letter Of Laughter

DEAR HELOISE: Here's a good quotation: "Necessity may be the mother of invention, but ingenuity is the father."

EDITH LINVICK.

DEAR HELOISE: When having company and I'm not sure how much tossed salad to make, I prepare a good-sized bowlful.

I mix my dressing and put it in a separate container. The company puts their own dressing on and any leftover salad greens are put back in the refrigerator and covered with foil to keep them for the next meal.

It's the dressing (when applied) that prevents salad keeping from one day to the next.

LORA MAE LENT.

DEAR HELOISE: We had blocked tiles laid on our kitchen floor. Whatever they used for cement, keeps coming up through the cracks of the tiles (although it has been three years since the floor was laid). Does anyone know how to stop this and what can I do to remove this black cement from the tiles?

F. H.

Does anyone know? We sure would appreciate it. Write your letters to Heloise. Letters do not have to be signed in order to appear in this column. And we would love you, if you would drop us an answer on a postcard. Bless you.

Massillon Wags Tail In 1st; Niles Drops To 3rd On List

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Massillon's Tigers, winners of more state football championships than any other team, shrugged off an early season 13-6 loss to Akron Garfield and climbed to the top of the Associated Press high school poll today.

The Stark County powerhouse, winner of the title and the Rutgers Hall of Fame Trophy nine times since the ratings were inaugurated in 1947, used a 74-0 victory over Struthers to vault from third to first place as 51 sports editors participated in the voting.

Leo Strang's Tigers made it

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1963 PAGE 12

by the most narrow of margins, however, nosing out Springfield South's seven-game winners by a mere trio of poll points on the 10-9-8-etc. basis. Last week's leader, Niles McKinley, was idle over the weekend and skidded to third place.

It was a three-way race for the crown as Massillon amassed 281 points, Springfield South 278 week's Top Ten held their same spots, with Cincinnati Roger Bacon, Akron Garfield, Cleveland St. Ignatius, Dayton Roth, Wilmington and Alliance completing the list in that order.

Players Quit Team After Losing 106-0

Cardington, a 106-0 loser to Buckeye Valley last week, did a bit better Friday. It bowed to Highland 51-12—in the season's most unusual contest. Players had quit the Cardington team in such numbers that only 14 were available, so unhappy Coach Henry Schroth—loser of seven straight—came up with an idea. By agreement with Highland there were no kickoffs or punts. At the start of each half the coin toss winner got the ball on the 20-yard line. After touchdowns the other team got the ball on the 30. Instead of punting, the ball was moved up 30 yards. Everyone seemed to enjoy the whole thing.

Canton McKinley's Arnie Fontes scored three touchdowns and passed for four others in the 60-0 victory over Steubenville's Big Red. Of four touchdowns scored against Springfield South, only one has been against the varsity.

Massillon used 55 boys in the rout of Struthers, and the 36-point second quarter was the best in its history. A dozen Tigers figured in the scoring.

Waverly halfback Bob McKenna rushed 268 yards in 17 tries, scored five touchdowns and kicked two extra points in the 60-12 triumph over Lucasville. Centerburg, which had lost six in a row, broke into the victory column 30-26 over Hillsdale—and quarterback Gary Wingo was the one-man gang responsible. He scored three touchdowns and a two-point conversion, and with only two seconds to go passed three yards to Nelson Jackson for the winning touchdown.

Springfield scored the first five times it had the ball at Portsmouth, and turned the chore over to the reserves in the second half.

Texas Remains No. 1; Pitt Holds 3rd Place

Longhorns Next Test With Rice

By The Associated Press
The Texas Longhorns, who kept Arkansas from breaking up their marriage to the No. 1 spot in college football, are out to make sure that Rice won't interfere with an extended honeymoon.

The Longhorns were voted the top major college team in the country for the second straight week Monday in The Associated Press weekly poll of a panel of sports writer and broadcasters. Texas drew first-place votes on 50 of the 53 ballots.

The Longhorns completely outdistanced second-ranked Wisconsin in the voting despite a 17-13 squeaker over the Porkers from Arkansas. The Badgers, 10-7 winners over Iowa, drew the other three votes for the top spot. Texas wound up with 527 points, Wisconsin 470.

Pittsburgh was third in the voting, Illinois fourth and Mississippi fifth, followed by Alabama, Oklahoma, Auburn, Northwestern and Navy. Ohio State, fourth a week ago, dropped out of the Top Ten after a 32-3 loss to Southern California and Georgia Tech, eighth last week; went out after a 29-26 loss to Auburn.

The Longhorns will be facing a tough assignment this Saturday night in the Rice Owls, who tied Texas 14-14 last year at this same stage of the season. That knocked the Longhorns from the No. 1 position they also held at this time last year.

The other members of the elite—with the exception of idle Auburn—also may be in for stiff competition this week on a program headlined by the meeting between Pitt's third-ranked Panthers and Navy's 10th-rated Middies.

Wisconsin faces Ohio State, Illinois takes on UCLA in a Friday night game. Mississippi meets Vanderbilt, Alabama tackles Houston, Oklahoma plays Kansas State and Northwestern goes against Michigan State.

The Top Ten teams with first-place votes in parentheses, and total points on a 10-9-8-etc. basis:

1. Texas (50)	527
2. Wisconsin (3)	470
3. Pittsburgh	383
4. Illinois	264
5. Mississippi	249
6. Alabama	215
7. Oklahoma	210
8. Auburn	177
9. Northwestern	141
10. Navy	96

Wellsville On Oak Glen Grid Schedule For 1964

Fairview West and Wellsville High have been added to Oak Glen's football schedule in 1964, it was announced at a meeting of Oak Glen Boosters Club Monday night.

Coaches Bob Starkey and Vince Monseau screened films of Oak Glen's homecoming game with Bellaire St. John's. The unbeaten Johnnies won, 25-0.

Plans were approved to sell

Refreshments were served. Jack Watson, president, presided. Next meeting is Monday night at 7:30.

Reds Sign Farm Club

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds have signed San Diego of the Pacific Coast League again as a farm team for 1964.

Although Starr has been erratic this year and has been intercepted 10 times, he has thrown eight touchdown passes and completed 50.7 per cent of his tosses. It was Starr, generally conceded to be an underrated quarterback, who led the 1956. He spent the next two years in the service but saw plenty of service in both 1959 and 1960. Traded to Green Bay in 1961, he threw only 16 passes in two years before this season.

With Starr out for possibly six weeks, Coach Vince Lombardi found himself with only Roach, a 6-foot-4 former Southern Methodist ace, as his lone quarterback. Roach had been drafted No. 3 by the old Cardinals in

Auburn Back Released From Hospital

Georgia Tech End Quits Team After Kicking Foe

ATLANTA (AP)—"We've had actual game losses which hurt us worse, but few games over all have ever left us feeling so badly," said Coach Bobby Dodd of Georgia Tech today as his team tried to adjust to the loss of end Ted Davis.

Davis resigned from the football team Monday after publicly apologizing for kicking Auburn halfback David Rawson in the face in last Saturday's 29-21 Auburn victory.

Rawson was released from Emory University Hospital Monday night.

Davis said he was resigning to save Tech "the embarrassment of kicking me off the football squad."

"I hope David Rawson will try to forgive this terrible thing that I did in anger," the 21-year-old Memphis, Tenn., senior continued. "I pray that God will help me to control my emotions in the future."

Davis said his action violated every standard that Coach Dodd sets for his football players.

Dodd accepted Davis' resignation and said the end will play no more football at Tech. However, the Tech coach praised Davis for admitting his mistake and said Davis would remain in school.

Auburn Coach Ralph Jordan expressed disappointment that Davis was resigning. He said Davis "holds no ill will toward him and he doesn't owe us an apology."

Chicago's Mikita Top NHL Scorer

MONTREAL (AP)—Chicago's Stan Mikita, the leading stickbreaker in the National Hockey League, also is the No. 1 scorer. League statistics released today show the Czechoslovakian-born Mikita leading the scoring race with 10 points on six goals on four assists.

The best anyone can do is estimate how many sticks he breaks. The figure is about 240 a season, about twice as many as most regulars in the league. It costs the Black Hawks in the neighborhood of $700 a year.

It's worth it. With Mikita centering Chicago's Scooter Line, all three members are among the top five in scoring. Ken Wharram is in the No. 2 spot with nine points on two goals and seven assists while Ab McDonald is tied for fifth with six points.

Enters Skating Event

NEW YORK (AP)—Dianne Hackett, 17, of Flint, Mich., who ranks second among Senior Ladies skaters in the United States, has entered the World Invitational Roller Skating Championships at Las Vegas, Nev., Nov. 6-7.

Davis was ejected from the game following the incident and Tech was penalized 15 yards for unsportsmanlike conduct. Doctors checked the 20-year-old Rawson thoroughly to determine that he had not sustained permanent damage.

Davis' loss is a blow to Tech football. Dodd had called him one of the finest college ends in the country.

OSU Seeks Upset Against Badgers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State's Buckeyes, still smarting from the worst defeat in Coach Woody Hayes' 13-year regime, return to the Big Ten wars Saturday—and they couldn't have picked a more prestige-packed foe for their comeback attempt.

Wisconsin's conference champions, winners of four straight and ranked second in the country, will be hosts to the Ohioans who hope to rebound from the devastating 32-3 setback at the hands of Southern California.

Hayes, in a short chat with press luncheon guests Monday, said the big problem in getting ready for the Badgers was a mental one rather than physical.

"We didn't get banged up physically against Southern Cal, probably because we weren't doing much," he said.

The canny Buckeye tutor has engineered quite a few upsets, and he could do it again Saturday. A year ago Ohio pinned a 14-7 loss on the Badgers, who came to town with a four-game winning streak against the Buckeyes' 2-2 record. That was the lone blemish on Wisconsin's record.

Hayes said, "We are old and Southern California's national champions nicked the Badgers 42-37 in the Rose Bowl."

In fact, in a dozen games against Hayes, Wisconsin has triumphed only once and tied twice along with nine losses.

The Southern California margin was the greatest suffered by Hayes in 114 games, and marked only the fourth time that a foe had gone over the 30-point scoring mark.

In Madison Monday night, Wisconsin Coach Milt Bruhn said his Badgers are concentrating on Ohio State and not on their No. 2 rating.

"We know we have a tough team to take on in the Buckeyes," Bruhn said. "We are thinking only about that game and not how we stand in the nation."

PACKER QUARTERBACK Bart Starr (15) kneels dejectedly on the sidelines with an ice pack on his hand as a result of an injury suffered at St. Louis Sunday. It was later learned that Starr had broken his throwing hand and may be out of the Green Bay lineup for six weeks or more. (UPI Telephoto)

Browns See New York A Bit Tougher

CLEVELAND (AP)—Coach Blanton Collier of the Cleveland Browns feels the New York Giants should be a tougher opponent Sunday than they were two Sundays ago because their pride was hurt in that defeat.

"A team that has lost feels it has to make up for the defeat," Collier said Monday. "And pro football teams have pride. The team which has won doesn't have quite as much incentive."

New York remained two games behind the leading Browns in the National Football League by defeating the Dallas Cowboys as Cleveland battered the Philadelphia Eagles Sunday.

New York Coach Allie Sherman wants to win this one badly but he doesn't feel it is a "must" game.

"No game is a 'must' game unless you're down to the last few with time running out," Sherman said. "It just puts unnecessary pressure on a team. Obviously it will make it a lot tougher for us if we lose this one. The players know that."

The Browns said 10,000 general admission tickets for the Giants game will be on sale from 5 to 9 p.m. Wednesday at Municipal Stadium only. Remaining tickets will go on sale Thursday morning.

Rizer was singled out for his fine defensive play at end while McLaughlin scored two touchdowns and gained 107 yards in 14 carries while quarterback Gaydos hit on 8 of 12 passes, threw for two touchdowns and scored another himself.

The Beaver Local Boosters Club will meet tonight at 7:30 when movies of the Carrollton-Beaver Local game will be screened by head coach Ed Stevens.

Packers' Starr Has Broken Hand

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer
Quarterback Bart Starr's injury thrusts a back-breaking burden on John Roach, a 30-year-old bench warmer in Green Bay's bid for a third straight National Football League title.

Roach, who has completed only two of seven passes as a stand-in for Starr and has had three intercepted, joins King Hill and Lamar McHan as former Chicago—now St. Louis—Cardinals who suddenly have become No. 1 quarterbacks.

Hill moved into the front row at Philadelphia after Sonny Jurgensen suffered a right shoulder injury in Sunday's game with

Benchwarmers Get Chance

Cleveland McHan, cut loose by the Baltimore Colts, finally decided to join the San Francisco 49ers and passed them to their first victory of the season Sunday, an upset over the Chicago Bears. He replaced the injured John Brodie.

Starr suffered a broken right hand in the Packers' 30-7 victory over the Cardinals. He was injured in the third period when he ran with the ball and was bounced out of bounds by the Cards' Jimmy Hill.

A fist-swinging incident followed and Hill was put out of the game. The injury to Starr's hand reportedly occurred when he hit the ground before the fight. Hill claimed Starr had kicked him while both were on the ground.

With Starr out for possibly six weeks, Coach Vince Lombardi found himself with only Roach, a 6-foot-4 former Southern Methodist ace, as his lone quarterback. Roach had been drafted No. 3 by the old Cardinals in 1956. He spent the next two years in the service but saw plenty of service in both 1959 and 1960. Traded to Green Bay in 1961, he threw only 16 passes in two years before this season.

Although Starr has been erratic this year and has been intercepted 10 times, he has thrown eight touchdown passes and completed 50.7 per cent of his tosses. It was Starr, generally conceded to be an underrated quarterback, who led the Packers to the league championship in 1961 and 1962, beating the New York Giants in the playoffs.

Lombardi prefers to concentrate on one quarterback, giving the signal-caller control of the offense. In such a situation, the No. 2 man, Roach, had little chance to play.

Starr's injury probably will assure a tight race down to the wire in the Western Conference of the NFL, where the Packers and Chicago Bears are tied for the lead with 5-1 records. After losing the opener to the Bears, Green Bay came back and won five in a row.

Deer Hunters Warned On Heart Strain

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — More than one in 10 deer hunters over 40 years of age—possibly many more—face serious heart trouble in an all-out, successful deer hunt.

This was the chief conclusion of a unique series of experiments recently conducted in Minneapolis, in which hunters actually broadcast the strain put on their hearts under simulated hunting conditions.

Thirty-seven hunters, all over 40 and certified by their own doctors as having normal hearts, were re-checked by a volunteer team of doctors.

Then they slogged through heavy gravel for three minutes, dragging a 100-pound sandbag to simulate pulling a deer out of snowy woods.

Tiny radio transmitters strapped to their waists broadcast their electrocardiograms to receivers monitored by doctors nearby.

Of the 37 men, four showed abnormal heart activity sufficient to halt their tests.

The test results, to be published in the November issue of Minnesota Medicine, were released in advance by the Minnesota Heart Association as a warning to deer hunters before the Minnesota season opens next month.

Since more than one in 10 of a carefully screened group failed the test, said Dr. Arthur C. Kerkhof, director of the heart group's work valuation unit, it is probable that the percentage of failure would be considerably higher for the mass of over-40 deer hunters who take to the woods.

However, Dr. Kerkhof said, a deer hunter who takes it easy has the odds much more in his favor.

People In News

ATLANTA (AP) — Peace and prosperity will win for John F. Kennedy in 1964, says James A. Farley, an expert on presidential campaigns.

Farley, who managed Franklin D. Roosevelt's winning campaigns in 1936 and 1940, says the civil rights issue will cool off before next year's election.

He told a news conference Kennedy would win a second term by campaigning on a strong international position which has maintained world peace and an improving domestic economy.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Youth must be served in space shots but it's no substitute for experience, says astronaut M. Scott Carpenter, a man with experience.

Carpenter, 38, told a news conference the 14 new astronauts have youth on their side then added:

"I think the thing that has to be taken into consideration is the experience gained by Project Mercury astronauts— which these younger astronauts don't have yet."

Carpenter, a member of the Project Mercury team, was the second American to orbit the earth.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Congressman looked Ngo Dinh Nhu in the eye and asked: "Why can't you control your wife?"

Nhu, brother of South Viet Nam President Ngo Dinh Diem, replied: "It is the same the world over."

The exchange was reported by Rep. William S. Broomfield, R-Mich., a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, which recently visited Saigon. Broomfield wouldn't say who asked the blunt question.

Mrs. Nhu, an outspoken critic of U.S. policy in Viet Nam, is touring the United States.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alaska has more land and fewer people than any other state. Is there any chance that her population will ever approach that of her more densely populated sisters?

"I hope not," says Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska.

"One of the great charms of Alaska is the fact that there are relatively few people there," Gruening said in a radio interview.

DUBLIN (AP) — Prime Minister Sean Lemass, recently returned from a visit to the United States, says "the atmosphere of cordiality and friendliness toward Ireland there was very noticeable."

Reporting to the nation on his trip, Lemass said in a television speech that prospects for valuable business ties with the United States are good.

Lays Bill Aside

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has laid aside for future consideration a bill authorizing funds to arrange for observance of the sesquicentennial of the Battle of Lake Erie.

Gabriel And McHan Show Stuff When Given Chance

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Hanging out the pro football wash—and save a couple of clothespins for the uniforms of Lamar McHan and Roman Gabriel, two guys who usually don't have much of a cleaning problem.

McHan, making his first start for San Francisco, engineered the top upset of the National Football League season, a 20-14 victory over previously unbeaten Chicago. Gabriel, going all the way for the first time, led Los Angeles to a 27-24 triumph over Minnesota.

It was the first victory for both the 49ers and Rams, and each quarterback got some valuable assistance.

McHan got his from end Gary Knafele. Both were former teammates on the Green Bay Packers.

They got a chance to start because of injuries to quarterback John Brodie and end Monte Stickles—and wound up clicking on a seven-yard touchdown pass that turned out to be the clincher against the Bears.

Gabriel got his assistance from Don Heinrich, Ram assistant coach who used a system of rotating guards a la Paul Brown to send in many of the plays.

The whole thing wound up in an argument in the dressing room.

Don Chuy and Joe Scibelli, the guards, each insisted he brought in the better plays. They were both laughing.

It's been a long time since the Rams laughed. They had an eight-game losing streak and a non-winning string of 14 . . . The 49ers had lost seven in a row . . . The Cleveland Browns have a streak going in the opposite direction. This is the first time in a decade they have started out with six straight victories.

The American League may have a big reunion at its title game if Houston and San Diego make it. George Blanda of the Oilers and Tobin Rote of the Chargers both played in the NFL. They last met in a regular season game on Dec. 14, 1958. Rote's Lions beat Blanda's Bears 21-16 . . . Tommy Davis, who has scored 26 of San Francisco's 74 points with his kicking, is the only victim of a blocked punt in the NFL so far this season . . . Oakland's victory over New York gave Western AFL teams an 8-7-1 record against the East. Three teams in the Eastern sector of the NFL, New York, Pittsburgh and St. Louis, have all scored 159 points.

The whole thing wound up in an argument in the dressing room.

Accused Fixer Freed On Bond Of $20,000

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Accused college basketball game fixer Frank Larry Rosenthal of Miami, Fla., was released on $20,000 bond Monday.

Rosenthal was flown here Sunday to stand trial on two charges of attempting to bribe players during the 1960 National Collegiate Athletic Association playoffs here.

The balding Miami man's long legal battle against extradition ended Friday in Miami when Circuit Court Judge John L. Kehoe allowed extradition during Rosenthal's fourth hearing.

Set Speed Record

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (AP)—Mrs. Barbara Nieland of Whittier, Calif., and Vince Granatelli of Los Angeles drove a stock production car 1,000 kilometers at an average speed of 135.29 miles per hour Monday for an international speed record.

Educator Claimed

NCAA Group Reprimands Two Schools

CHICAGO (AP) — Tennessee Tech's two-year probation by the NCAA for recruiting violations was lifted Monday but Wichita and Millersville of Pennsylvania were reprimanded for infractions.

Tennessee's Tech's full rights and privileges will be restored Thursday on the recommendation of the NCAA infractions committee and the approval of the policy-making council.

A member of the Ohio Valley Conference, Tennessee Tech had been placed on probation in October of 1961.

Wichita was reprimanded by the NCAA council for violating recruiting provisions by utilizing the services of a professional talent scout in New York and providing the scout with an expense-paid trip to the university at the time the prospective athlete made his visit.

Millersville, a school with an enrollment of 2,100, was censured for permitting its athletic director and football coach to participate in the conduct and administration of a high school all-star football game last August. The game was not certified by either the appropriate state high school association or the NCAA.

Four members of the 1963 Harvard soccer squad are Africans; three from Nigeria and one from Ghana.
